WHERE

If college is your next step, your future in Florida can be sunny anywhere you land. You live in a state with a terrific variety of schools to choose from. Check out this big list of options, and consider the following factors to help vou make a decision.

- LOCATION Where do you want to be, and why? Are you a beach baby who can't imagine moving inland, or someone who has to be at least 100 miles away from the parents? Consider the cities of the colleges you are interested in to make sure locale is a good fit.
- SIZE Do you prefer a smaller campus and student body? Check out the enrollment figures in our guide to see if you'll feel at home or claustrophobic.
- COST The pricetag is an important factor in any major purchase, including your education. How much can you afford to pay in tuition plus room and board? Some of the costs are listed in our guide by credit hour, while others are for the whole school year. Either way, don't forget to consider all your expenses, and available financial aid and scholarship awards.
- MORE DETAILS Looking for more specifics about a particular school? Go to its website to learn about the academic programs and degrees that are offered, campus facilities, activities and more. You can also request more information by sending in the card after page 50.

State Universities

The State University System of Florida comprises 12 schools located throughout the state. Credits and classes transfer within state universities and between state colleges and state universities. Inquire about the transferring of specific classes from private or independent schools to state universities to ensure proper credit.

All state universities except Florida Polytechnic are currently accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS).

2014-15 Gift Card Winner

Isaiah Abraham Steinbrenner High School. Class of 2015

Isaiah plans to study biomedical engineering at the University of South Florida in Tampa. He filled out the entry card in 12th grade while he was using the magazine for an English Honors class project. "The $1,000 will come in handy for college expenses," he says.

Enter our drawing and you may be a winner too! Mail the entry card (after page 50) or visit www.FloridaNext.com
